

Travel back in time to the current Middle Ages and be

BRATA

...by joining the Society for Creative Anachronism!

In the SCA, you can learn to fight with sword and shield, make and wear historic dress, cook and concoct with herbs, illuminate a page with calligraphy, create your own heraldry, work with leather and metal, shoot a bow and arrow, play medieval games, create and dance to medieval music, and bring the past alive in the present!

The SCA is an international non-profit educational organization, dedicated to the preservation, research, and recreation of life in the years 600 to 1600 A.D. Members of the SCA learn about the past by researching period arts, crafts, and traditions and then experience history by recreating it. Unlike a Renaissance Faire, the SCA is participatory—no one is simply a spectator. All the attendees play a part in reenacting the Middle Ages and Renaissance!
